Drivers beware

The weekend's heavy winds and storms ruined the roadway across this bridge on Cogswell Road in Romulus. City workers were on hand to warn motorists of the damage, and city officials are busy today trying to work out plans to apply for possible funding from the federal government to pay for a massive storm drain construction program which will improve drainage and help avoid similar damage in the future. — Photo by The Romulus Roman Chief Photographer Lothar Konietzko.

Young people find recreation in stage work

A group of Romulus residents are attempting to sample public support for a theater group they hope to form in the city.

Theresa Medley, 20, the spokesman for the group, is hoping to find at least 100 residents from the community who are interested in the various aspects of amateur theater productions.

"There are plenty of recreational opportunities for the young and the senior citizens in Romulus, but there's little that I can see for people of my age," Miss Medley said. "We think it may be good to start a theater group as an outlet for those persons in the community whose interest may lay here."

"However, we need some monetary support."

Miss Medley hopes to obtain some funding through the Romulus Recreation Commission. But that money will be contingent on participation, she believes.

"Right now, there are about 40 people interested in the proposal," she added. "I think we need more participation from more people to convince the Recreation Commission this is a worthwhile project to start."

According to her plans, Miss Medley is hoping to obtain between $2,000 and $2,500 to finance the initial production of the group.

Putting on the first show should result in increased revenues, and those revenues could make the theater group self-sustaining.

"We need money now for royalties, scripts, costumes, scenery and printing costs," she continued. "Later those can be covered from proceeds of other productions."

The group is aiming toward a late August or early September production of a comedy.

Volunteer workers would be needed to handle acting chores, make-up and costuming, and to act as the stage crew.

"It would serve as an excellent opportunity for persons who have mutual interests to get together in Romulus," she added. "This community is far too divided, and I think it's time people got together to unite it."

"I like to know the people I live with."

Miss Medley would be willing to take the names of volunteer workers at her home. Persons interested in working in an amateur theater group should call her at 941-4565 after 6 p.m. daily.

Persons should call quickly, however.

Miss Medley will be making an appeal to the Recreation Commission at its June 4 meeting and hopes to have a number of people available for help at that time.

Funding appears likely for city's 'super drain'

The mayor of Romulus is hopeful that the city and Huron Township can obtain a grant from the federal government to help finance either a portion or the entire cost of a $27 million "super drain" program, designed to alleviate poor storm drainage in both communities.

Terry L. Troutt returned from a conference with Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District) who represents the city, hopeful that a soon to be approved "public works bill," proposed in Congress, will finance the cost of the drainage construction which would include a "super drain" down the Middle Belt-Inkster Road corridor in Romulus to divert storm flow to the Huron River.

"The plan of the public works program is to make work available, particularly in the area of construction," Troutt said. "Depending on the amount of money included in the program, I'm hoping there's a chance to include the construction cost in a grant for the money."

Preliminary discussion on the public works grant proposal centers around a figure of $5.5 billion to be sent out nationwide to finance community improvement projects and to boost employment in hard hit areas.

Troutt believes with the high unemployment statistics in the Detroit area — sometimes ranging as high as 15 percent — and the key need for drainage improvement in Romulus and Huron Township, the program may be available to the city.

However, he also believes he'll have to get some cooperation from Huron Township officials to get the program on the road.

"There was discussion several months ago about the cost of a research project to determine whether the Huron River can handle the extra storm flow," Troutt said. "We've gotten the Wayne County Road Commission to foot the cost of the bill for the research, but haven't obtained any answer from Huron officials on whether they'll kick in their $10,000 share of the total $60,000 project."

"The feeling I've been getting is that Huron officials are a bit reluctant to spend the money."

To get the project off dead center, Troutt will be calling for a meeting between Romulus and Huron officials to discuss its future.

"I think if Huron officials don't want to participate, then the city will kick in another $10,000 for its share of the research project," he said. "There's a good possibility that the project can be done entirely by Romulus without the cooperation of Huron."

"But that would entail a storm drain being constructed underground along Middle Belt or Inkster roads in county right-of-way."

The initial proposal by Wade Trim and Associates, the city's consulting engineer which drew up plans for the proposal two years ago, calls for the construction of an open "storm drain intercept" along Harrison Road to the Huron River.

Troutt has become interested in moving the project along since the public works funds are to be made available by July 4.

"I think the sooner we get moving on it, the farther ahead the city will be in obtaining scrutiny for the funding from the federal government," Troutt added. "I just think the city has a better chance to obtain funds if it's closer to the front of the line."

He believes the township and city should cooperate in the project since it will save constituents in both communities money in the long run.

"Right now there's talk of assessing the city and township up to $19 million to pay for improvements in the Ecorse Creek drainage plain," Troutt said. "That's a good portion of the cost of the other project and won't be permanent for the communities."

"If all the drainage basins serving the communities are cleaned by special assessment by the drain commissioner, the assessments alone could add up to far more than the cost of this project.

"And you have to remember that the storm water goes through a drainage system now which runs from Romulus to the Detroit River and Lake Erie.

"It's d be far better to divert the flow to the Huron River than to pay for drainage systems which not only serve Romulus and Huron, but places like River Rouge, Ecorse, Lincoln Park and Gibraltar.

School book learning: Students build house

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

Although facilities at Romulus High School aren't crowded enough to warrant sending students out of the school for their "book learning"—some students at the school have been forced literally to build their own classroom and laboratory.

But those 22 students, all seniors, don't feel abused over the extra work, because they volunteered to do it as part of a second-year building trades program offered through the school's vocational education plan.

The students are putting finishing touches on a custombuilt home they constructed literally from the ground up to learn all the skills they will need if they wish to enter the building trades after graduation.

According to Building Trades Instructor Terry Bird, the students learned carpentry, plumbing, electrical wiring, brick laying, cement finishing and decorative masonry.

"I think it's proven to be valuable for their education," Bird said.

Modeled after a program started in a neighboring district nearly four years ago, the Romulus Building trades program is designed to offer students first-hand insight into the various aspects of construction.

"The only areas not done entirely by the students were taping the dry wall, building the chimney, digging the foundation and finishing the basement floor," Bird said. "However, in each of the phases, outside contractors who were called in to handle the work were asked to demonstrate the skills they needed for the particular job and to allow the students to experiment."

Conrad Samonek, a licensed builder who operated his own home building firm for five years, supervises the students at the site.

"They're inexperienced," he said. "But their enthusiasm and eagerness to learn go a long way to overcome the initial problems of inexperience."

"If I still had my company, I'd be glad to hire these guys as starting workers on any project."

The home building is the last phase of a 2-year building trades cycle begun in the Romulus system last year.

The first phase included constructing storage sheds, teaching students skills they needed for rough carpentry. The second phase was working on the house.

John Krasuski, a senior at the school, said he thinks the program "is the best thing that ever happened to the district."

"I thought I would be going into computer technology when I was a freshman and sophomore at Romulus," Krasuski said. "But I had the opportunity to learn about the building trades and want to continue in it."

Krasuski intends to enter Michigan State University next year in an electrical technology program.

Samonek said Krasuski's experience is typical of those by other students.

"Each student more or less sought his own interest," Samonek said. "John served as the electrical foreman, but other students became interested in the carpentry, plumbing, brick laying and other parts of the job, and more or less took over."

"However, when one project had to get done, all would participate in it."

Bird said he and Samonek hope to continue the program next year. The school district is seeking suitable lots for construction.

"We'd like to keep the homes in this area," Bird said. "But anyone with suitable lots should notify the district."

Mart money earned supplements living

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

A 65-year-old Romulus woman is operating under the theory that any little money she earns today is more than she would have had tomorrow, if she didn't work.

And for that reason, Mary Strzempek becomes the "community market lady" every summer.

Mrs. Strzempek, who has made her home in Romulus with her husband, Stanley, for the past 38 years, is a participant in the city's annual market program held in the Romulus City Civic Center parking lot Saturdays during the summer and early fall.

"Sometimes I make $8 and sometimes I make $18," she said. "But whatever I make is more than I would have had the day before."

According to Community Market chairman, Beverly McAnally, Mrs. Strzempek has become a regular at the weekend event by promoting sales on plants, produce and small antiques.

"She's quite colorful," Mrs. McAnally said. "And I think her energy, enterprise and interest in the market typify the spirit we like to promote in the event."

While Mrs. Strzempek said she appreciates the money she earns through the sale of goods grown at her home and antiques she collected over the years, she also enjoys meeting people.

"It's a chance to get out and talk," she said. "People from all over the community come in here and I see them."

"It's something I look forward to every week."

On sales days, Mrs. Strzempek has displays of garden plants, tomatoes, beans, ochre, cabbage, peppers, greens and apples, depending on the season.

In addition, she engages in what could be a summer-long house cleaning program.

"I buy things which catch my eye," she said. "But after awhile the house is crowded with things which caught my eye, so I sell them."

'I buy things which catch my eye...'

The community market lady is a "pro" by the standards of most who participate in the weekly sales event.

She said: "I spent half my life at the Western Market at Michigan and 18th."

"Then I moved to a market on Middle Belt, but I couldn't get along with the people, so I started my own garage sale for a little while."

"Now, I do this, and I think it's the best."

With the increasing numbers of persons entering the weekly market, Mrs. Strzempek not only finds companionship, but also some competition which holds her interest.

"Sometimes we bargain prices," she said. "It's a good feeling to do good at selling, although I'm not out to hurt anyone."

"But if you have a bushel of beans you want to sell for $5, but everyone has the same, sometimes you'll sell for $4.50 and feel good to sell it at all."

"After all, you can't keep beans another week, and you may have more at home to sell later."

Virtually all the food Mrs. Strzempek sells at the Market is home-grown on an acre of land which she maintains without chemicals.

"Everything is organic," she said. "It's better to let 'Willie the worm' move over and eat the rest of the fruit than it is to eat chemicals, so I grow everything organically."

With this year's June 7 market opening approaching quickly, Mrs. Strzempek is busying herself with making arrangements for her sales.

"I'll have some early vegetables," she said. "In addition I'll have some antiques, and if the plants still are strong, I'll sell some tomato plants and cabbage plants for those who are interested."

"I'm looking forward to it, and I think it will be better this year, since there will be a flea market and handicrafts on sale, too."

"I hope many people come out for it."

Urban renewal ceremony honors pioneers

The pioneers of Romulus will be honored in ceremonies this weekend marking the closing of the first phase of the city's Wayne-Beverly Urban Renewal Project.

The American Progressive Association and the Wayne-Beverly Urban Renewal District Council will co-host a dinner Saturday at the Sheraton Metro Inn in Romulus.

Ceremonies marking the completion of the urban renewal project will begin at 2 p.m. at Van Born Road and Chamberlain Street with a parade, featuring marchers from various civic groups, political officials and a marching band. State Sen. David S. Holmes, one of the co-signers of the original state resolution authorizing the urban renewal project, will speak at flag raising ceremonies at the Urban Renewal park site near Howe Road.

The park, at the end of a three-quarter mile walkway through the center of the urban renewal project, will be named after the city's lone casualty from the Vietnam War, Eugenio Fernandez.

In addition, five streets in the urban renewal area will be named after persons who pioneered the Romulus community. Honored will be the late

Joel Hearst, the founder of the city's first Black-operated supermarket; the late Hazel Harrison, a justice of the peace in the community; the late Irene Martin, one of the original school board members in Romulus; the late Rev. Horace Jackson, a founder of an early Romulus church and the late Eddie Beenum, one of the founders of the American Progressive Association. Relatives of those persons honored with the street namings have been invited to attend and will come from as far away as Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

Following the street naming ceremonies, the participants will have dinner at the Metro Inn.

Georgia Brown, director of the model neighborhoods program for the Metropolitan Detroit area, will be guest speaker.

Tickets for the dinner and dance which will follow can be obtained at the American Progressive Association headquarters at 35351 Beverly Road, Romulus.

Proceeds from the dinner and dance will go toward the renovation of the Progressive Association building.

In addition, the co-sponsors will put out a souvenir book during the dinner. Proceeds from selling ads to patrons also will be used for the renovation of the Progressive Association building.

Dinner will promote racial understanding

A Western Wayne County resident believes that people can solve many of the differences between races through understanding the heritage of those various races.

And for that reason, Romulus resident John G. Roundtree Sr., a principal in the Detroit School District, is promoting a Heritage Dinner-Dance, entitled "A Prelude to the 1976 Bicentennial—Salutations from Bermuda to the United States on its 200th Birthday" in July.

Roundtree's Metropolitan Detroit Educational Careers Institute is sponsoring the July 12 dinner-dance at Cobo Hall to kick off a plan to create better understanding among the many races in the Detroit area.

Eight mayors from the area, including Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt and Westland Mayor Eugene

McKinney, have volunteered to back the event.

Roundtree said the idea behind the Bicentennial observance is "to gather, evaluate and share pertinent information regarding cultural, educational, recreational, political and social involvements and contributions of people of non-white origin to the varied civilizations in the Western Hemisphere."

explored during the educational institute's special Bicentennial observance are the various cultures and histories of the islands and nations in North and South America.

The first spot to be highlighted is Bermuda, according to Roundtree.

"It so happens that the islands of the Caribbean Sea were the land masses closest to the continents, and, therefore, were the first places explorers and persons of the various ethnic groups reached, Roundtree continued. "Therefore, it is important that various islands, and their heritage, are highlighted."

Ticket information is available through the Metropolitan Detroit Educational Careers Institute, 33950 Ecorse Road, Romulus 48174.

Tables at the dinner will seat 10 persons.

Carney upsets merchants

BELLEVILLE — Merchants in Belleville's business district are upset with the Belleville-area Chamber of Commerce for putting on a weekend carnival. Al Rizzo, owner of a major supermarket in the City's downtown area, said the carnival, and the parking it requires, would cut into his business on a weekend which he described as the "best of the year." Rizzo expected a 15 percent increase in sales, but feared carnival patrons would fill his privately-owned lot, driving customers away.

PTA to host fair at school

The Harrison Elementary School PTA will be sponsoring a school fair between 12 and 4 p.m. June 7.

As we see it

Energy outlook seems darker

A year ago the U.S. Geological Survey estimated there were between 200 and 400 billion barrels of undiscovered oil under American soil or within our offshore territorial limits.

Under criticism that they were being too optimistic, government geologists now have recalculated, and agreed. They now have scaled the figure down to between 50 and 127 billion barrels, putting their estimate within the same range as those made by the oil industry and the National Academy of Sciences and triggering an alarm that the cut-off point for our oil and gas resources is closer than we think.

If there is anything more alarming than these projections it is the inability of the nation to do what they are telling us to do.

Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb is spreading the melancholy word that when all the fussing about the energy crisis which has occupied America's officialdom since 1973 is toted up and balanced out, we have lost more ground than we have gained.

The abundant coal reserves which could lessen the rate we deplete our petroleum and natural gas resources still are lying mainly underground. We have just seen Congress pass a strip mining bill with environmental provisions that likely are to inhibit the production and use of coal rather than encourage it — the reason President Ford vetoed a similar bill last year and the reason he probably will veto this one.

Meanwhile the government is implementing a program to require power plants to burn coal instead of oil when they have the opportunity, but with the prospect that there will not be enough coal available to comply, and if there were, air pollution control equipment must first be upgraded. Like most of our energy programs, this one may not get off the ground for two or three years.

The oil industry is poised to begin exploring new offshore areas for oil and gas, but under a barrage of delaying tactics by environmentalists. Utilities trying to build nuclear power plants remain swamped in endless debates about environmental impact and safety, including an initiative campaign in California that could all but freeze nuclear development in our most populous state for years.

Our country is trying to cope with a massive energy problem in the face of a new "environmental ethic." That ethic is valid, but there also is an ethic of survival that must be given equal respect.

There will be an environmental penalty for every oil and gas well that is drilled, every ton of coal that is mined, and every power plant that is built: but we must face the fact that man cannot live on this earth without altering the face of the landscape to some degree. There are hazards in handling nuclear materials, but the ability to minimize that hazard is already proven.

We are in an age of enlightenment about man's potential for damaging the earth that sustains him. We also are being enlightened, however, about the potential for a disastrous shortage of available energy to support our way of life, and we seem bent on waiting for the disaster to come before we do anything about it.

Superintendents back bill

To the editor: The following resolution was passed at our Region Nine School Superintendents' (Michigan Association of School Boards) general membership meeting held on May 6. It is designed to state our position on the need for speedy action on legislation necessary to correct problems in the existing law governing collective bargaining for public school employees.

Set forth here is the resolution: "WHEREAS, teacher strikes have disrupted the education process in recent years, and,

"WHEREAS, strikes by public employees are not adequately resolved in the law, and,

"WHEREAS, there is an absence of strike deterrents upon the parties involved,

"THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that Region Nine, MASA, support H.B. 4468 and H.B. 4469 on Public Act 379, better known as the "Keith Task Force Bills" whereby basic changes would legalize the right to strike; define the scope of bargaining; and remove the statutory requirements for 180 days of school; and,

"BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that in giving support to the Keith proposal this organization does not unqualifiedly endorse these bills as they relate specifically to binding arbitration but only to the extent the complete proposals provide the best balance of any legislative package presented to date.

"FINALLY, IN SUPPORTING THESE BILLS, BE IT RESOLVED, the Region Nine position is taken on the assumption the present balance as stipulated in the current language of the bills will be maintained and that major changes will not be adopted in the legislative process."

Region Nine public school superintendents, representing superintendents in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties, urge prompt action on this matter. We also urge other concerned citizens to voice their opinions to the governor and the Michigan Legislature.

Are we taking step back?

To the editor: Congratulations Americans! Our beloved country has taken another step backwards. A step to her eventual fall. Don't laugh. It happened to the only other great civilization years ago, when Rome fell.

Our increasing apathy, moral decay, political degrading and her constant selling out, have put her in a weak position in the world. Being nearly her 200th birthday — her bicentennial — makes it all the harder to accept the recent events that have antagonized America's proud heritage.

Recently, Cambodia seized an American merchant vessel for no apparent reason. Cambodia refused to listen to America's request for the release of the ship.

Today, May 14, United States planes were fired upon for the second time. In retaliation, they sank three of the Cambodian vessels.

My question is this: How long and how much of this type of thing is the United States going to take?

When Japan attacked Pearl Harbor, didn't we immediately realize? And we won!

Since then though, we have been kicked around, and out of at least three countries, had a ship seized by Korea, had all of our oil companies nationalized, suffered the humiliation of Vietnam, and lost much of the support of our world allies.

Yet as a country, we spend billions each year in foreign aid to many of the countries that turn their backs to our needs. Why support countries that wouldn't support the United States?

There is a saying, "United we stand, divided we fall."

I can only see this as the result of America's fear to stand up and fight for herself. It happened in Rome, it will happen here. They say history repeats itself.

For unemployed

Benefit climax is near

By BOB BERG,
Panax Lansing Bureau Chief

The stage is set for the nitty gritty negotiations between the two sides to the unemployment benefit controversy which is moving inexorably to a climax in the Capitol.

A bill raising the ceiling on benefits by $30 a week has passed the Legislature and is headed to Gov. Milliken's desk. But the governor has vowed to veto it in its current form, saying it would be disastrous for the business climate, and thus the long range job picture, in Michigan.

The negotiations will involve the governor, his staff and legislative Republicans on one side and legislative Democrats and organized labor on the other.

Once the bill actually reaches Milliken's desk in printed form he will have two weeks to act on it — a deadline which should come in the first week in June.

There are two main areas of contention and it is in these areas that a compromise will come, if one can be worked out.

The most basic one is the benefits area. Currently unemployed workers receive a check totaling 55 percent of their salary up to specified ceilings ranging from $67 a week for single persons to $106 a week for families of five or more. The bill headed for the governor would raise the ceilings by $30 a week and make payments based on 60 percent of their salary up to the ceiling.

Milliken and the Republicans say this is too much money, while the Democrats and labor leaders say it isn't. Opponents say it will put too much of a burden on business and make Michigan a very unattractive state for expansion — thus in the long run creating more unemployment.

Proponents say the increase is needed to allow unemployed workers to cope with today's high cost of living.

The second area of contention involves unemployment payments to persons who voluntarily quit their job rather than being laid off or fired. Currently a person who voluntarily quits is eligible for unemployment after six weeks of unemployment. Republicans want to make that a 14-week waiting period.

If concessions are to be made by the Democrats, it appears more likely they will come in the field of voluntary quits rather than in levels of payments.

House Speaker Bobby D. Crim (D-Davison) has repeatedly said he and other Democrats recognize there is a problem in that area. They say they want to make sure any changes to not hurt persons who are harassed into quitting.

"It's definitely a problem," Crim said. "But it's a very complicated area and you aren't going to work it out in a day or two."

This is the area the Republicans are most concerned about, too, and in which they will fight hardest for concessions.

All the while, the clock will be moving toward the deadline for the governor to sign or veto the bill.

Milliken already has made the point that the votes are there to uphold his veto. He did that by stalling action which allows the bill to go into effect immediately upon its signing.

That stalling came in the Senate after some vigorous arm twisting by the governor. Once his point was made, he took the heat off and let the bill go the rest of the way through the Legislature.

GRADING

Should students be judged?

By STAN OPOTOWSKY
Panax Special Columnist

Should schools continue to grade their students, or should they merely pass or fail them?

That's a question not even the professional educators can handle.

Obviously the student and the parents are entitled to some kind of report on how the student is faring. And, obviously, various groups such as college admissions boards need something to evaluate one student over the other.

But as the student rises in the school system, the grades become less and less meaningful. Too often the grades reflect now how a student is doing, but rather how the teacher feels about grades.

One teacher always may grade high to make himself or the students look good. Another always may grade low. And the grades also will vary from school to school, reflecting in part the overall ability and progress of the student body rather than the individual student.

It is in college that the grades, which can be of critical importance in the case of a student trying to get into medical or law school, are most subject to teacher tampering.

College professors on the whole are inclined to scorn the grading system as beneath their dignity. They are paid to teach, not to evaluate.

One professor quips that at his university a C means the student attended classes, a B means he attended classes and did the work, and an A means he attended the classes and did the work on-time.

Some universities are leaning more and more to the pass-fail system, feeling that especially in the case of large classes no professor really can evaluate a student in detail except on the basis of exams — and it is pretty well known that exams are not always an accurate measure of what the student has learned.

But pass or fail doesn't give those graduate school entrance boards anything to go on. They could fall back on competitive entrance exams, the only measure of a student's knowledge or ability.

Most teachers don't like students competing against one another. They feel the students then miss the point of the class. The point is to learn the subject, not to beat the other fellow.

Of course, life is competitive. Salesmen are trying to beat other salesmen and clerks are trying to beat out rivals for a promotion. So perhaps there is a valuable lesson in the competition itself.

But we should seek a system when students and parents can become aware of progress (or lack of it) without a grading system, since no one seems to have any faith left in the system as it now exists.

Foundation sponsors summer camp for blind

to be held this summer under the sponsorship of the Christian Record

Braille Foundation and the Seventh-day Adventist Church. It will be held Aug.

3-8 at Ranch Au Sable east of Grayling. In camps scattered from

New England to Hawaii, young people who never have known the thrill of camping out, horseback-riding, canoeing, and even water-skiing will be doing just that this summer, even if they can't see.

Specially trained counselors will give close supervision to the young people as they engage in these unusual activities. As much as possible their sense of touch will be working overtime to help make up for what they can't see in nature. Ropes stretched from cabins to lodge and other points of camp interest will help to make the campers more independent.

The camps regularly are operated for sighted youth by the Youth Department of the Seventh-day Adventist Church in each state. The church cooperates with Christian Record Braille Foundation in opening the camps to blind children without regard to color, sex, or creed.

Christian Record, with headquarters in Lincoln,

Neb., publishes Braille magazines and books, talking books on records or tapes, and large-print materials for those who have limited vision.

Hearing airs school aid plan

A proposal for a new state school aid plan will be the subject of a public hearing, to be held here Saturday by the Senate Education Committee.

Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) a member of the committee, said parent organizations, school officials, teacher union representatives and all other persons interested in educational reform are invited to attend the hearing and-or testify.

The hearing will begin at 10 a.m. at Harrison Intermediate School, 6701 North Harrison St. between Maplewood and Cambridge — 4 blocks east of Middlebelt and nine blocks north of Ford Road — in Garden City.

Members of the Senate Education Committee will hear testimony on legislation, introduced by Committee Chairman Jack Faxon, which would create an entirely new formula for computing state aid to local school districts.

Faxon claims the bill will allocate state aid to a school district according to the local cost of providing a quality education rather than on the amount of millage that a school district is able to raise.

The cost of implementing the program would be offset by an increase in the tax on cigarettes and liquor, according to Faxon.

Belleville-Romulus agencies merge

A Romulus insurance agency has merged with a Belleville agency to provide "better service to the entire community."

The Henry R. Deering Agency, of Belleville has merged with the Fuerst Agency of Romulus with Fuerst owner, John Fuerst operating as an agent for the Belleville firm.

The Deering Agency, operated by Darryl Raymond and Richard S. Smith, has been a landmark in the community, being operated since 1926 under the name Huron Valley Realty and being renamed the Deering Agency in 1964.

The Fuerst Insurance agency has been located in Romulus for the past 15 years.

Raymond said he believes the new larger agency "can offer improved service to both Belleville and Romulus residents through its expansion."

The new Deering agency offers insurance to homeowners, commercial businesses, auto owners and residents. It will continue to serve those Romulus customers formerly affiliated with the Fuerst agency, a spokesman said.

Blooms mark 200th

The Belleville Bicentennial Committee will be sponsoring a flower sale this week to kick off the "red, white and blue" motif the city would like to follow in its celebration of the nation's 200th anniversary of independence.

Flower booths will be opened between 3 and 8 p.m. Friday and between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. Saturday to sell red, white and blue flowers for people's gardens in the area.

"We're going to be urging residents to plant the nation's colors this year," said Judy Fruit of the Bicentennial committee. "This will make it a little easier to find the right colored plants if they want to celebrate with us."

Plans call for setting up booths with individual potted flowers on Main Street near the center of town.

Full flats of flowers will be available by Don and Carol's Party Store.

In addition to the flower sale, the Bicentennial committee will be sponsoring a bake sale on Main Street during the weekend. Proceeds from both sales will be used to finance future Bicentennial activities in Belleville.

School aid is posted

More than 15 million in state school aid payments will be distributed to five local school districts on June 1 as the state makes its final school aid payments for the academic year.

The specific amount received by the Romulus Community School District was released by State Rep. Thomas Brown (D-Westland) whose legislative district (the 37th) includes all or a portion of each of the five districts.

State aid and Title I money sent to the Romulus Community Schools was $421,328.00.

The Legislature currently is working on next year's school aid package. The bill has been reported favorably from the Education Committee, on which Brown serves, and now is being looked at by the House Appropriations Education Subcommittee.

"I feel this coming year's formula will be fair to all districts and allow them to continue to have the necessary revenues to operate their systems," Brown said. "I believe we have made some more progress in the funding of special education and other specialized programs, and I hope that the Appropriations Committee will not tamper more than is necessary with the bill and formula that we have sent to them."

As area boom

Smith backs mid-decade census

Wayne County Commissioner Royce E. Smith has renewed his plea for public support of proposed state legislation that would authorize a 1975 census and qualify growing local communities for more state revenue.

Referring to Senate Bill 126, now before the Municipalities and Elections Committee, Smith said: "I consider this piece of legislation to be the most important matter for Western Wayne County that the Legislature will consider this year."

The bill would put many suburbs west of Detroit in line for substantial increases in state aid due to population growth since 1970.

'This legislation would guarantee major increases for cities and townships...'

"Since local communities receive state funds on a population basis, this legislation would almost guarantee major increases for cities and townships in Western Wayne County," he added. "All of Western Wayne County has gained substantially in population," Smith former Mayor of Belleville, has been a strong proponent of the legislation since its introduction in February by Democratic Sen. William Faust of Westland, David

A. Plawecki of Dearborn Heights, Patrick H. McCollough of Dearborn, Carl D. Pursell of Plymouth and John A. Welborn of Kalamazoo.

Smith also is the author of a resolution, adopted by the County Board of Commissioners, urging enactment of the Senate bill and a companion House Bill 4172.

The House Bill was introduced by Democratic Rep. Thomas H. Brown of Westland.

"It is of the utmost importance that these actions be supported by efforts from other public officials and private citizens to impress upon the Legislature the importance of this legislation," Smith said.

"Anybody who is affected and who sits idly by is allowing money to be taken from his pocket and from his paycheck, because that is how we are being penalized as long as our true population is not accurately and currently reflected," Smith added.

He estimates that the communities in western Wayne County may have doubled their population since.

Under the proposed legislation, the mid-decade census would be conducted by the Secretary of State and would allow any political subdivision receiving state funds to request a population count.

Smith represents District 27 on the County Board of Commissioners. The district encompasses the cities of Belleville, Plymouth, Wayne and parts of Westland, plus the townships of Sumpter, Van Buren, Canton, Plymouth and part of Northville.

At Annapolis Hospital

Diagnostic unit opens

Annapolis Hospital's new Diagnostic Services Center, another milestone in the operation of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA), is in full swing.

Despite raining weather, more than 75 people attended the recent dedication ceremony of the hospital's $3.5 million 2-story addition.

Dedication ceremonies began with the raising of a state flag presented to PCHA by State. Sen. William Faust, who was unable to attend.

The flag raising was held in front of the medical complex. Present at the ceremony and participating in the program was the Color Guard and Bugle Corps of the Edward Bova Jr. Post of the VFW, located in Westland.

Following the flag raising program, the center was blessed by both Fr. John Buehner, assistant pastor at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Wayne, and The Rev. Loren M. Scribner, pastor of the Kirk of Our Saviour United Presbyterian Church in Westland.

A guided tour of the facility was held after the blessing ceremony.

The center includes the latest in X-ray, radiology and therapy equipment. In addition, it has available services involving nuclear medicine, an evolving field of medical treatment, a PCHA spokesman said.

Summer: Michigan rolls out fun's red carpet

Michigan's history, ethnic heritage, farm crops and scenic beauty are just some of the perfect excuses for festivals in towns across the state this summer.

From late May through the end of August, Michigan vacationers are guaranteed to find a continuous selection of celebrations offering parades, entertainment, food and arts and crafts displays, to name only a few attractions.

Michigan's logging history will be honored at Baraga's Lumberjack Days — July 3-5 — and at the Paul Bunyan Festival in Oscoda — Aug. 14-17. Visitors to Baraga will enjoy logging games, horse-pulling contests and fireworks. Oscoda's festival will be highlighted by banjo "pickin'" contests and "tall-tale" competition.

The Mill-Town Festival, Aug. 14-17, is Grayling's annual birthday party. A carnival, arts and crafts displays and a parade are among activities planned to honor that town's origin on the banks of the Au Sable River in 1872.

For festivals honoring Michigan's ethnic groups, there are Detroit's ethnic gatherings, along the riverfront near Cobo Hall. Every weekend through Sept. 19-21, one of the city's numerous ethnic populations will have its time to celebrate. Music, dances, food, culture and handicrafts from most of the world's major countries are featured.

Two other well-known celebrations also honor the "old country." Beer tents and dancing to polka bands are part of the traditional fun at Frankenmuth's Bavarian Festival Sunday through June 14. The Alpenfest in Gaylord, July 15-20, invites visitors to enjoy everything from the "world's largest coffee break" to sauerkraut dinners and yodeling contests.

The abundant harvests from the state's orchards and fields are other causes for celebration. One of the state's best-known summer events is the Traverse City National Cherry Festival — July 7-12. Orchard tours, pie-eating contests and parachute jumps are only a few of the activities.

Other harvest-time festivals sure to have sweet treats for visitors are the National Blueberry Festival in South Haven (June 26-July 6), Sebewaing's tribute to its sugar beet industry.

The outdoors fun that the state offers in the summertime can be enjoyed at the Tourist Festival, June 27-29, in East Tawas and Tawas City. Highlights include a 63-mile bicycle race past Lumberman's Monument and a statewide softball tournament.

Two of the state's major boating centers — Port Huron and Muskegon — also are celebrating this summer. Port Huron's Blue Water Festival — July 7-13 — will feature scuba diving demonstrations, four nights of fireworks and a carnival. A fishing derby, sand sculpture contest, boat races and musical entertainment are on tap for the Muskegon Seaway Festival — June 26-July 6.

Perhaps the most scenic of Michigan's festivals are held on Mackinac Island and in Jackson. Mackinac Island's Lilac Festival — June 14-15 — now in its 27th year, is a favorite for photographers, both amateur and pro. Municipal rose displays and tours of local gardens await visitors to the Jackson Rose Festival — (June 7-15).

Old-fashioned fun — ox roasts, parades and fireworks — is the theme of Ludington's traditional Independence Day celebration, the Freedom Festival, July 4-6. Over in Bay City, the Bay Country Days Festival — June 20-22 — will offer much of the same plus sailboat and canoe races.

A pot-pourri of cultural events will be enjoyed at Iron Mountain's Festival of the Arts, which runs from June 2 to July 24. Highlighting the Upper Peninsula fest are an exhibit of paintings from the Smithsonian Institute and concert performances by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Certainly, one of the state's most unusual festivals occurs in Colon, located about 30 miles southeast of Kalamazoo. This tiny town's annual Magic Get Together — Aug. 20-23 — is expected to draw close to 1,000 magicians. The public is invited to nightly demonstrations by the country's leading sleight-of-hand tricksters.

VA provides money for vets' home loans

Military veterans in Western Wayne County, during these times of rising housing costs, may find salvation in a GI loan.

Officials noted the Veterans Administration (VA) has approved nearly nine million loans valued at $111.3 billion since World War II, and more than half the loans already have been repaid in full.

"As buying a home generally is the largest and most important expenditure a family ever makes, care should be taken to insure value received for money paid," officials said.

A veteran who buys a home with VA assistance usually finds the loan easier to obtain because the agency guarantees part of the loan. No down-payment is necessary unless required by the lender, or the purchase price exceeds the reasonable value as determined by VA.

The loan may be repaid over a long period of time at a moderate interest rate, with the option of paying off all or part of the loan in advance without penalty. VA appraises the home to determine its reasonable value in the prevailing market.

The agency also makes available an inspection service, in most cases, on proposed new homes to insure that they meet accepted standards of good construction and conform to plans and specifications on which the agency's appraisal was based. When there are justifiable complaints, the agency tries to assist in getting the builder to correct defects.

VA advises veterans who want GI loans to first select a home, then take a certificate of eligibility issued by the agency to a private lender, and apply for a loan. The agency guarantees 60 percent, up to a maximum $17,500, of loans lenders make to eligible veterans.

Students graduate June 4

Graduating students from Belleville High School will be honored during commencement exercises scheduled for 8 p.m. June 4 at Bowen Field House at Eastern Michigan University.

Commencement speaker for the graduation exercises will be Morley Fraser, director of continuing education and assistant to the President at Albion College.

Fraser will speak on "Life Can Be Fun." Valedictorian for the school year is Sharon Petrasky and the salutatorian is Charles Dougherty.

We Offer You OUR APOLOGY

Foodville Super Market would like to apologize for any inconvenience encountered by our customers in finding a space in our parking lot this past weekend.

Due to the Chamber of Commerce authorizing the carnival in the middle of the business section (without the consent of all the business people of Belleville) parking spaces were at a minimum.

Foodville offered to pay the Chamber of Commerce the profit they would realize from this event to avoid the lack of parking spaces for the shoppers in the city, but to no avail.

We would like to thank the Mayor and Police Chief for their cooperation in helping us police our parking lot which is for our customers only.

This is one of the busiest weekends in the grocery business and we try to give our customers the best of service always. We have purchased and maintained our parking lot only for the benefit of our valued customers.

Belleville High chances slim to win against Dearbornites

Though they'd need a little more than a miracle to beat the two Dearborn entries — Edsel Ford and Dearborn — at the third annual Suburban 8 Conference track meet, Belleville High expects to see some of its track members on the winner's dias.

Belleville will carry a 3-4 league record into today's league meet hosted by Redford Union. Redford Union, recently crowned the Class A regional champ at Livonia Stevenson, Edsel Ford, the defending league champ, and Dearborn, undefeated in dual meet competition are the favorites.

"We don't expect to beat the top teams," said Belleville High Coach Bruce Romant who is rounding out his first season as head coach. "However, there are a few individuals who I feel have a very good chance of winning individual events."

Among the local thin-clads who are shooting at league titles are Vic Busby and Al Russell, highly-touted shot putters.

Belleville's two fine long jumpers Eugene Poitevint and Randy Patterson should find their way among the top contenders in their specialties.

Poitevint leaped 21 feet, 4 1/2 inches to finish second at the regionals. His performance earned for him a shot at the state finals.

The finals will be held over the weekend at Flint Northwestern.

The league meet will get underway at 3 p.m. today with the field events. Then, at 4 p.m. the stage will be set for the preliminaries of the running events.

The championships in each of the running events are scheduled for 7 p.m.

Edsel Ford handed Belleville a 72 1/2-50 1/2 setback as the two teams brought the curtains down to the dual meet season. Belleville garnered four of the 15 first places.

Busby tossed the 12-pound sphere 49 feet, 5 inches to win the event, while teammate Poitevint soared 20 feet, 11 inches and Rodney Patterson hit 20 feet, 8 inches in giving the Tigers' a 1-2 for the long jump.

Belleville also had a first in the pole vault where Al Russell and Jeff Riggs decided to call it quits after beating the field with a 10-foot, 6-inch effort.

Rmant put together a foursome of Mike Blazer, Tom Kos, Ed Conrad and Harold Gable who responded in 3:34.3 to win the mile relay.

Tigers lose on diamond

It just isn't Belleville High's year in baseball. A series of incidents including some disciplinary problems led veteran Coach Vi Kaminski to shuffle his lineup against Dearborn, the defending Suburban 8 Conference champ, on Wednesday.

And it all ended in disaster for Kaminski's Tigers who succumbed to the Pioneers 14-2.

"We made some changes in our lineup," Kaminski said. "And we inserted some young players into it. The boys just couldn't stand up against an experienced Dearborn club."

Walt Easley started on the mound for Belleville and worked the first six innings before the Tiger skipper yanked him to get a look at sophomore Lance McArthur who finished up the game.

Belleville averted the shutout when it managed to score twice in the second inning.

Easley led off with a single and walked down to second when the umpire called catcher's interference and awarded Greg Brown first base.

Jeff Smith was safe on a fielder's choice and Charles Beavers walked, loading the bases.

Scott Rice then singled in the two runs.

Belleville was to wrap up the season — weather permitting — last night. The Tigers were scheduled to meet Plymouth Salem, the league's leader.

Eagles whip Willow Run

There were tornado warnings posted for the Romulus area, but when a tornado didn't materialize, Romulus's baseball team whipped one up of its own in the form of an 8-run outburst against visiting Willow Run.

Coach Dennis Stol's Eagles scored eight times in the sixth inning to erase a 2-run deficit and win a 8-2 ball game.

"It was a well-played game," Stoh said. "But it also was one of those bizarre affairs. We were trailing 2-0 in the sixth and all of a sudden we catch fire and score eight runs."

The victory gave Romulus a 12-8 won-lost over-all regular season record. The Eagles were scheduled to meet Bedford on Saturday for a pre-district game. A victory against the visitors would enable them to compete for the Belleville district championship.

Bob Griffin started on the mound for Romulus against Willow Run and worked the first five innings before senior Rick Britz took over and finished up. The two combined on a 5-hitter with Britz eventually getting credit for the victory.

In that "bizarre" sixth inning, Griffin sparked the rally with a circuit clout off of losing pitcher John Nowland. Then, Don McMann tagged Nowland for a single and he was tripped home by George Butler, tying the score. Don Moore walked and a balk scored Butler with what proved to be the winning run.

Romulus continued its assault on the Willow Run pitcher with Michael Morrison coming through with a single. Jay Barton also singled and Mike Kelly rapped an infield base hit, scoring another run.

Jerry Goodman kept things going with another infield single and McMann, up for the second time, drilled a bases-loaded double producing three more runs.

Earlier in the week, Romulus put six runs on the scoreboard in the first inning to stun Woodhaven

7-3 as junior Johnny Myers chalked up his first victory of the season.

Myers, unsuccessful in his bid for a victory in his prior two starts, walked four, struck out three and gave up four hits.

Barton led off against losing pitcher Tom Carmack by getting aboard via an infield error. Woodhaven then proceeded to commit three other errors in that frame.

Barton was sacrificed to second by Kelly, then Griffin walked. Goodman also got aboard on an errant play, loading the bases for Butler who slapped a grounder to short. The ball went through for an error.

McMann singled in two more runs and Moore walked, bringing up Morrison who made it to first on an error.

Myers then belted a 2-run single, giving the Eagles a comfortable 6-0 lead.

Pitcher tosses no-hitter during Little League play

Howard Mabary made his start in the inaugural Sumpter Township Little League an auspicious one last week as the young pitcher tossed a no-hitter. The Tiger hurler wound up beating the Rangers 5-2. The Rangers bounced back to whip the Oakland A's 13-9 and the Tigers made it two straight with a 6-1 triumph over the Red Sox.

The Red Sox begin the campaign by taking a 17-15 slugfest from the A's and the Mets eked out a 30-28 victory over the Angels.

Boxing tourney set

If Muhammed Ali can come to the aid of Shaw College, then why not the AAU boxers helping out the Romulus Women's Softball League.

The league plans to hold its inaugural Romulus Invitational Boxing Tournament, a tourney that is billed as a league fund-raiser.

The tentative date for the boxing tournament has been set for July 5 at Romulus Senior High School.

Boxing will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Sanctioned by the AAU, the event will feature a 10-bout, 3-round card in various weight classes. Special interest has been generated by the acceptance of the Kronk Boxing Club of Detroit, ranked the No. 1 club in America, to compete in the tournament.

It could mean that six national champions will box in the tournament. Kronk Coach Emanuel Stewart said he would bring his best fighters in all classes and "I look forward to some exciting battles by excellent amateurs."

Area coaches Leit Philbin and Leo Salakis also have indicated they will have their club members represented in the tournament. Tickets for the tour-

Teen hits hole-in-1

With one stroke, 14-year-old Jay Caldwell accomplished what thousands of golfers dream — he shot a hole-in-one.

Jay, an eighth grader at Belleville South Junior High School, aced the 165-yards, 8-hole at Knob on the Lake Golf Course.

The young golfer used a 5-iron.

Apparently shaken by the experience, Jay carded an 86 for the round. He's been golfing for only two years.

In nine starts

Romulus has dismal track year, winning 1

If victories are the criteria for a successful athletic season, then Romulus High has a dismal track year.

Winner of only one dual meet in nine starts, Coach Al Wilkerson's Eagles finished with a 1-9 won-lost record. But this is the first year Romulus track mentor sees some light at the end of the tunnel.

"It was a disappointing season when one looks over the record," said Wilkerson after his team dropped the season finale 94-24 to Taylor Truman. "And I thought we would do better. "But our goal was to get people out for the team. Last year at this time we only had a handful of athletes, now we ended the season with 26 persons, so I feel we are leaning in the right direction."

Romulus did end the 1975 season on a positive note: the Eagles won the final event, the 440-yard relay against Truman. That victory was pulled off by Larry Courtney, Rich Smmith, Joe Bailey and Jeff Warren who finished two-tenths of a second ahead of their counterparts from Taylor (47.4).

Courtney also won the 100-yard dash with a 10.6 clocking and teammate Donald Robinson leaped 18 feet, 11 inches to take the long jump for the only other Romulus win.

Meet results: Taylor Truman 94, Romulus 24

Record pace

Setting a fast pace on the junior high circuit these days is Mike Koski who led South to a stunning 90-42 victory over Vogel recently. Koski's 24.4 for the 220-yard dash established a South Junior High record and he also won the 100-yard dash with a respectable 11.2

Huron's Chiefs drop four games in a row

Playing eight games in a span of a week took its toll upon New Boston Huron pitching as Coach Ron Smith's Chiefs dropped four in a row in the conference.

The losses left Huron holding a 2-8 league record with four games remaining in the 1975 season.

One of the bright spots however was Huron's victory over Airport in the pre-district qualifying round. The Chiefs ousted Airport 14-5 and were to face Southgate Aquinas Saturday in the district qualifying game.

Mike Michling pitched the first four innings against Airport and got credit for the victory. He was relieved by Ken Kwasnik who was credited with the save.

Huron struck for three runs in the first and second innings, then exploded for six more in the third to enjoy a 12-2 lead after three innings.

Jeff Gill continued his excellent pace at the plate as he drilled three hits — all singles — and counted three runs batted in.

Gill, who has 28 RBI's for the season, is batting .400. Lonnie Fater also rapped three hits in four trips, one of those was a 2-run triple. Teammates Russ Ikert and Greg Beattie split four singles between them.

Meanwhile, Huron continued to have its problems in the league. Carlson, the league's pacesetter, trounced the Chiefs 9-3 earlier in the week as Gill was charged with the loss.

And Grosse Ile dumped Huron 11-6 with Michling going four innings on the mound.

Steve Kwasnik tripped to lead off against the Islanders and also had two singles. Gill led the attack against Carlson with a pair of singles and a double.

"The pitchers have been working overtime," Smith said. "And we just collapsed. I'm hoping for better things in the stretch."

Classic set

Belleville and Romulus cage fans will be able to get a glimpse of who's who in prep basketball when the Eighth Annual Roundball Classic is held at Olympia Stadium.

The game is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Bruce Flowres of Berkley and high-scoring Terry Duerod of the state champion Highland Park team will lead the Michigan All-Stars against the tough U.S. All-Stars which will include players Bob Bender, Jay Lownethall and Harold Morrison.

The 6-foot, 3-inch Bender has more than 641 career assists and is the University of Indiana's top recruit.

The classic's opening game will feature the Metropolitan and Detroit All-Stars. Brother Rice star Will Franklin and 6-foot, 10-inch Eric Agardy of Plymouth Salem are in the Metro lineup, and the Detroiters will use Greg Gaye of East Catholic and Jason Puryear of Lutheran West fame.

This annual event is sponsored by the Northwest High School's Men's Club.

by Jr. Kosin

Under most car warranties, the car owner is responsible for seeing that scheduled maintenance is done at specific intervals. This includes such things as regularly changing the oil and oil filter, and checking the fluid levels of the automatic transmission, brake master cylinder, and power steering. Items replaced during routine maintenance — spark plugs, fuel, air or oil filters — these must be paid for by the owner. If, however, the part fails prematurely, indicating that it was originally defective, then it should be replaced by those doing maintenance.

For quality parts for your foreign or domestic auto, visit KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan, Inkster. We specialize in parts for Datsun, Toyota, Fiat, Opel, Volkswagen, and many others. School suspends players

Several members of the Belleville High School varsity baseball team have been suspended from playing the rest of the season for breaking training regulations.

The players were charged with drinking during a chaperoned weekend party in a Van Buren Township home in mid-May.

Belleville High School Athletic Director Harry Hidenfelter refused to comment on the suspensions, stating: "I think the matter is settled," however he did verify that the players would be suspended from playing the lone game remaining on the Belleville schedule.

The suspension would last only this season, he added.

Van Buren School District Supt. Dale E. Kaulitz said he did not deal directly in the suspensions, but indicated that the athletic director and Belleville High School Principal John P. Ford met with eight parents Friday to detail the reasons for the suspensions.

A spokesman for the parent group had contacted The Belleville Enterprise to complain about the suspensions, but when contacted following the Friday meeting, said: "After talking with the principal and athletic director, I think we're satisfied with the reasons."

Players of the Belleville High Junior Varsity baseball team have been promoted to the varsity club to play the remaining game on the schedule.

To avoid injury, death

Lawn care: Watch equipment

Western Wayne County residents alike have lawns to care for, ranging from a few square feet to several acres. Many also garden, producing fresh vegetables to save on food bills and pretty flowers to add color and grace to the home environment.

But caring for lawns and gardens means work and plenty of it. And to help, people rely on a whole team of mechanical devices such as power mowers, lawn and garden tractors, chain saws and electric hedge trimmers, edgers and grass shears. Only the hardiest choose to apply old-fashioned muscle power to push a mower or grip the shears.

Although people always have found ways to hurt themselves with manual devices, injuries are more severe these days from mishaps with power lawn and garden equipment.

Around 55,000 persons annually are treated in hospital emergency rooms for power mower injuries, according to estimates by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission. Many of the victims lose fingers, toes and other body members. And some even die.

Many are hurt by objects hurled by the machines. Overturns, runovers, falls from ride-on equipment by extra riders and fire and burns from refueling are more ways people suffer accidental injury.

Hedge trimmers, edgers and grass shears also are responsible for many injuries. Such equipment relying on house current not only can cut you but also deal a lethal electric shock if you accidentally snip the cord or work on wet ground with a faulty unit.

Lawn care and gardening usually involves use of pesticides and fertilizers. Although most chemicals meant for home and garden use are not highly toxic, certain precautions must be observed in using and storing them to avoid illness and skin irritation.

One expert suggested that accidents can be prevented if basic safety precautions are used. Care and attention to the job are musts to avoid injury when running power mower equipment. Read the owner's manual and be sure to note all of the safety instructions. Keep your hands and feet away from moving parts. Shut off the engine before unclogging, servicing, adjusting or refueling the machine. Remove the spark plug wire when working on the machine.

Police the working area to remove all trash, stones, wire and other objects which could clog the mower or be thrown by the blades, and keep children and bystanders out of the work area. Never work barefoot or in thongs or canvas shoes. Wear safety shoes, if possible, and be sure you have good traction on the soles.

Use judgment when lifting and learn how to lift properly. Use good trimming equipment and be careful not to cut the electric cord. Keep fingers away from the shears and sickle.

Read the label on all pesticides before using and follow the directions to the letter.

Try vegetables as ornamental

You may think of growing vegetables to eat, but many vegetable varieties are attractive enough to be grown for their beauty, too.

Asparagus is a good ornamental, since its fernlike leaves are attractive. Some plants have bright, orange-red berries. The edible forms of asparagus provide a spring crop of tasty spears.

Home gardeners can grow both regular and mini-varieties in a wide range of fruit sizes and shapes.

Many members of the onion family produce interesting flowers. Some, like the alliums, are purely ornamental.

Green or purple cabbage and broccoli, flowering cabbage and flowering kale also are popular ornamentals. The crazy shapes and bright colors of gourds make them a natural, too.

If you have plenty of room, try ornamental corn. Indian corn probably is the best known, with its infinite variety of kernel colors. Strawberry popcorn also is popular, as are varieties of corn with different colored leaves.

Horticulturists offer one caution about ornamental corn: cross-pollination of sweet corn and ornamentals will make the ears of the sweet corn less edible. Avoid this by planting a midseason or early sweet corn variety that will pollinate itself before the ornamental variety is ready for pollination.

Peppers—whether green, yellow or red—will brighten any container garden or flower patch with their vividly colored fruits. Banana peppers produce 7-inch fruits that change from yellow to red when ripe. These come in both sweet and hot varieties.

Tomatoes were grown as ornamentals in Europe long before anyone got up the nerve to eat the fruits.

Know your materials needed for planters

Whether a friend has just given you a single tomato in a pot or you have a whole indoor garden of potted primroses, ferns, chrysanthemums, or chives, the time is bound to arrive when you zero in on how to house your pet plants.

What kind of container should you choose? Elegant china? Tough redwood? Glazed oriental pottery? Woven baskets, plastic or wire? A cast-iron jardiniere? Or unglazed clay?

To decide what containers to use to showcase your plants, consider some down-to-earth information. Among pot materials, the old-fashioned unglazed clay ranks highest among the experts. As the book points out, "these classic, time-honored containers are hard to beat." Clay pots help the plant—water evaporates through the sides and helps the roots stay cooler. Clay pots usually range in size from 2 to 18 inches in diameter—and all have a drainage hole.

For people with indoor plants, especially, containers of glazed pottery have a lot of appeal. These containers come either with or without a drainage hole. If you want the esthetic pleasure of a decorative container and it doesn't have a drainage hole, it's best to grow the plant in a slightly smaller clay pot inside the cachepot.

Plastic pots and baskets have their virtues. The material is light-weight, less expensive than clay, and available in the same range of sizes.

You can come up with a real decorator look using all white plastic pots, but exercise care when you choose bright colors which may tend to appear garish. Plastic pots with drainage holes are preferred to those without.

Some container gardeners go for wooden boxes or planters. Redwood does especially well outdoors. It's rot-resistant, long-lasting and attractive. Be sure to check how it's put together before you select a box or planter—metal banding is often used and it's quick to rust.

The better way is to build, or have built, your own wooden planter boxes, sized to fit your particular needs. Don't overlook marine plywood as a relatively inexpensive material for making planters.

Like glazed pottery, baskets offer fascinating possibilities for interior decoration.

Plant containers brighten room

Eliminate that barren look around your home or apartment with a container garden, suggests Will Carlson, extension horticulturist at Michigan State University.

"Both vegetables and flowers can be grown in containers," he said. "Even the apartment dweller can have colorful flowers and fresh produce."

Vegetables suited to container gardening include peppers, parsley and other herbs, cabbage, lettuce and tomatoes. Flower favorites for containers include pansies, petunias, French marigolds, wax begonias, coleus, impatiens and geraniums.

As an example of what you can do, you can grow four staked tomato plants in a 2-by-2-by-2 foot box that easily may yield 25 pounds of fruit each during the growing season.

'Though a simple clay pot on the patio may come to mind when you think of container gardening, window boxes, hanging baskets, ornamental urns and strawberry pots are other variations on the container theme.

RESOLUTION NO. 75-247

WHEREAS: The Detroit Edison Company has filed an application with the Michigan Public Service Commission to amend its rate schedules governing the supply of electric energy to amend other rates and-or requirements, more significantly the requirement to establish a new line extension policy which would require a permanent non-refundable contribution by the local municipalities equal to the cost of the street lighting installation less the equivalent of one years revenue for an overhead system and two years revenue for an underground system; and

WHEREAS: The state of the economy has adversely affected every industry, municipality, and citizen in the State of Michigan; the City of Romulus can see no reason to grant further subsidies to public utility companies; on the contrary, public utility companies must shoulder their fair share, whether their fair share be in terms of profits returned in a health economy or reduced profits in a sick economy.

Church to host meet

Residents of the Belleville - Romulus Community will be joining with people from throughout Western Wayne County to take part in a 6-day gospel meeting at the Allen Park Church of Christ, beginning June 1.

Jim McGuiggan, a native of Belfast, Ireland, will be conducting the gospel meetings.

His theme will be, "Now that you've tried everything else, follow the instructions." The theme for the meeting is based on the principle that even though the most recent portions of the Bible were written nearly 2,000 years ago, the truths still apply today and can be used to solve any problem encountered by modern man.

A 35-year-old father of five, McGuiggan combines his Irish brogue with a Texas drawl. He was converted and became a minister by working his way through the North Ireland Bible School.

After graduating, he served as an instructor at the school. He then came to the United States to further his education and graduated from the Sunset School of Preaching, Lubbock, Tex.

McGuiggan now serves as a professor at both the graduate and undergraduate levels at the Sunset school.

A number of books have been written by McGuiggan, including commentaries on Ezekiel, Daniel, Romans, I Corinthians, a survey of Isaiah and an approach to Christian evidences.

McGuiggan will speak three times at 9:30 and 10:30 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. June 1. He will speak twice daily, at 10:00 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. on Monday through Friday June 2-6. The Allen Park Church of Christ is located at 23610 W. Outer Drive, about a half mile west of the Veteran's Hospital in Allen Park. Visitors are welcome to attend at no cost.
